

Artist: Alexander Baker (UK)

Title: Any field recording, replayed, begins to dream...

Time: 27:00

Style: Field Recordings/Soundscape

Date: April 2016

Label: Green Field Recordings

Artwork: GFR

Original Photos: Alexander Baker

www.greenfieldrecordings.yolasite.com

www.solublefisherman.wordpress.com

(cc) Alexander Baker/GFR 098

Alexander Baker
Any field recording, replayed, begins to dream

A piece created with sounds collected during two stays in Frigiliana, Andalusia, 2014-15.

<http://www.frigilianatoday.com/> <http://www.frigiliana.es/>

Any field recording, replayed, begins to dream...

As there are waters under the mountain... As there is blood in the stones...

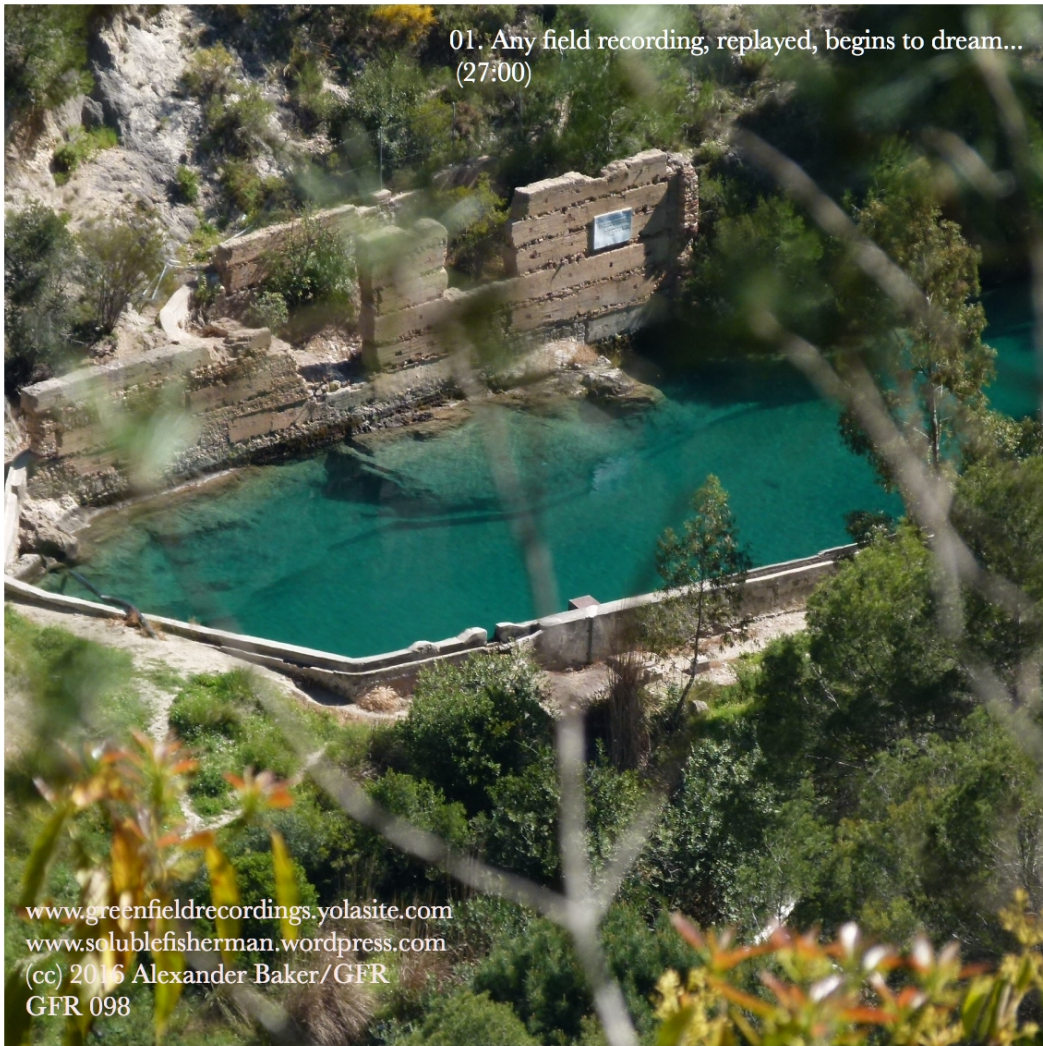

Life divided into streets, narrow and steep. Echoes. Water roars in the ravine. At the corner of a sun struck square a culvert mutters. The mountain's unconscious seeps into the fountains. Voices burble in shadowed rooms.

Divided, narrow and steep. The effort to climb away from history's shale and scree. At dawn the sky is valley, the valley is sky. Daylight teems as though twilight will never be. At night the bells fall silent.

01. Any field recording, replayed, begins to dream...
(27:00)

www.greenfieldrecordings.yolasite.com
www.solublefisherman.wordpress.com
(c) 2016 Alexander Baker/GFR
GFR 098